Alliance Driver of This Car Climbed Out With a Scratch

A 27-year-old Stark County man miraculously escaped possible death Sunday night at 7:45 when his auto was crushed beneath a truck load of fabricating material on Route 224 near Bedell Road.

Jay Dickinson of 15166 Gaskill Dr., Alliance, driver of the 1951 Plymouth, had only a few arm scratches as a memento of the mishap involving his car and the tractor-trailer outfit driven by Delmar Zimmer,

33, of Mishicot, Wis. The Canfield post of the State Highway Patrol reported Dickinson pulled from a private drive about one mile east of the Portage County line into the path of the oncoming truck which ended up on top of the car, crushing all but the driver's side. Dickinson, who was cited for failure to yield the right of way, was treated at Alliance City Hospital and released.

Kennedy Calls Unemployment 'No. 1 Problem'

Says High Number Of Jobless Cheats Individuals, Nation

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy reported to Congress today that unemployment, "our No. 1 economic problem," is wasting lives and unrealized production that could materially increase the nation's living standards.

The President said the economy is growing steadily more efficient but is progressively failing to supply the jobs to occupy a fast-expanding population and work force.

"We cannot accept this situation," Kennedy said in again urging on his tax cut proposals and other programs advanced to spur economic growth and job expansion.

"It is within our power to take these steps," he said, "to consummate an achievement of such magnitude as to mark this decade for all time in the history of human progress."

Kennedy submitted his message to Congress along with a comprehensive Labor Department inventory of manpower resources and their utilization since World War II and forecasts of what is likely to happen in the future.

At the rate the economy is going, he said, unemployment will rise by 1967 to 5.5 million, or 7 per cent of the work force.

Among other things, the President reported: —In the 15-year period 1947-62, the labor force increased 21 per cent but employment increased only 17 per cent, with consequently rising unemployment.

—Nonfarm employment rose an average 900,000 a year in the 1947-57 decade, but since then has been rising less than 500,000 a year, or as Kennedy said, at a rate "not nearly enough to keep up."

In 1962 alone, time lost — because of average 4 million unemployment and because some 2.7 million workers wanted full-time employment but found only part-time work — amounted to a waste of 1 billion potential work days.

Kennedy said this was equivalent to shutting down all production in the nation for over three weeks. —For each of the past five years the rate of unemployment

Defense Chief Orders Study

Dyna-Soar Project May Be Curtailed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force faces possible loss or severe cutback of another of its cherished projects—the manned space glider called Dyna-Soar.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara reportedly has strong doubts the space glider program is worth the additional $500 million it would take to complete it.

McNamara and his scientists apparently believe the Dyna-Soar would duplicate work to be done by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's two-man

Gemini orbital flights, Gemini, in which the Air Force has a minor share, is closer to flight than is Dyna-Soar.

The defense secretary has set in motion a review of the Dyna-Soar project and has told the Air Force, in effect, to try to justify moving ahead with it.

The Air Force—which contends there is no comparison between the two projects—is mustering data and arguments to present to the tough-minded Pentagon chief.

Its mood was underscored by Lt. Gen. James Ferguson, the Air Force's deputy chief of staff for research and development, who said, "We think it is a most critical part of the national space program."

Death or major curtailment of the manned space glider would hand the Air Force its third serious defeat within the past year. The others came on McNamara's refusal to permit full development of the 2,000-mph RS70 reconnaissance-strike plane and junking of the bomber-launched Skybolt missile.

The Air Force has significant congressional backing for its Dyna-Soar, now officially called the X20, and for its so-far frustrated ambitions for a big-scale military space program.

But if McNamara should decide against the Dyna-Soar, it is unlikely congressional outcries will budge him.

The Dyna-Soar, whose name comes from the term "dynamic soaring," is a winged craft whose pilot would control his return from orbit, then maneuver through the atmosphere to land at an airport, much like a conventional aircraft.

The new proposal, ready for action after weeks of study, is the top item of business as lawmakers begin their 10th work week tonight.

The new Sunday sales bill, according to House Judiciary Chairman Edmund James, R - Noble, does away with present law banning common labor on Sunday except for necessary and charitable work.

In James' words, it divorces the issue of Sunday sales from the religious approach and retains an exemption for those who conscientiously observe Saturday as their Sabbath.

It is possible Gov. James A. Rhodes' message to the legislature covering both the state of the state and the operating budget over the next two years may fall on the same day as the deadline for introduction of bills in the Ohio House—March 18. The Senate plans to observe no bill-introduction deadline.

Contract For W. State St. Bridge Signed

$1,185,230 Total Cost; Completion Date Is July, '64

Work on the Salem overpass project is expected to start within 10 days, as the result of the signing of the contract by the Ohio Department of Highways and the A. P. O'Horo Co.

Officials of the Youngstown construction firm, who received the signed contract this morning from the state, announced that they hope to start work sometime next week on the $1,185,230 grade elimination project on W. State St.

O'Horo was awarded the job Jan. 8 on a contract price of $673,480.71. The formal signing took place Thursday and the company furnished $398,000 bond, State Highway Director P. E. Masheter announced this morning.

Construction company officials will hold a pre-job conference at Division 11 headquarters with Division Engineer Earl Nelson possibly on Friday, to determine the exact work schedule. O'Horo said he could start work next Monday, but there's a possibility that the pre-job conference may be postponed a few days.

Funds Sought To Extend A & P Lines

Arch Bricker, president of the Salem Area Industrial Development Corporation, said today that SAIDC does not know how it will raise the $12,776 which is listed as the corporation's share of the expenses for the extension of sewer and water lines at the south edge of the city.

During a special City Council meeting Friday, an ordinance was passed appropriating $12,682 as the city's share of the expense for running sewer and water lines to the south edge of Salem near where the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. plans to erect a food and meat processing plant.

The cost of extending the lines from the city's edge to the expected plant's site is to be borne by SAIDC.

Bricker said a special SAIDC committee is looking into the matter. On the committee are: Thomas Casack, Wells Vaughters, and Attys. Scott McCorkhill, Earl Miller, Lozier Caplan and George Bowman.

The city has awarded a contract to the Soda & Luscher Co. of Niles for the extension of the water and sewer lines at a cost of $23,145. The A & P has requested that the work be completed by May 1.

Students Show 160 Projects

Awards Presented For Best Exhibits

About 1,000 persons trekked through the Junior High School gymnasium Friday and Saturday to view some 160 Science Fair exhibits prepared by sixth through 10th graders or attend the award ceremonies held Saturday night.

Walter Newton, science teacher, attributed the success of this second annual school science exhibition to the energy and intelligence of the pupils and to excellent cooperation of Salem's businesses, organizations and individuals.

Special awards were given to the following with project title in parentheses:

Best project exhibited by a girl, Charlotte Berg, ("I Had a Dream Last Night").

Best project exhibited by a boy, Jay Oana, (Cosmic Rays).

Conservation, Chet Burson, (Strip Mining Reclamation).

Human body, Sally Starbuck, (Blood Rh Factor).

Astronomy, George Zeller, (Radio Astronomy).

Medicine, Charlotte Berg, ("I Had a Dream Last Night").

Rocketry, Tom Vacar, (The Mighty Atlas).

Plants, Jean Hilliard, (Fungi).

Animals, David Navoyosky, (Entomology).

Electronics, Vernon Sproat, (Progress in Power Transmission).

Earth Science, Paul Fennema, (Glaciers).

Disease, Rosemary Fithian, (Defeat Muscular Dystrophy).

Medals were awarded to the following students, ranked in order of their placement by the judges, and with exhibit topic in parentheses:

Sixth and seventh grade Vernon Sproat, (Progress in Power Transmission); Claudia Volio, (Alcohol and Its Effects on Organisms); Doug Hamilton, (Fallout); tie; Kent Zines, (Rocks and Minerals).

Honorable Mentions Bob Zines, (Rocks and Minerals); Gary Barker, (Basic Oxygen Making Process); Gene Tullis, (Transmission Electricity); Rick Kilbreath, (Radio).

Patrol Investigates 12 Mishaps

4 Persons Injured In Auto Accidents

Four persons, including two area young people, were slightly hurt in area weekend traffic mishaps, according to the Lisbon barracks of the State Highway Patrol.

The three accidents in which injuries resulted were among an even dozen investigated by highway policemen.

Thomas Leipper, 19, of RD 5, Salem received lacerations of the right knee, and his passenger Judith Harrold, 17, of Elkton, suffered jaw and lip cuts after Leipper's car struck a bridge abutment Sunday at 3:30 p.m. on Route 154 about one mile east of Lisbon.

Leipper told the patrol the mishap occurred when he took his eyes off the road to adjust his sun visor. He was cited for reckless operation.

Car Careens Into Ditch In a Saturday mishap at 6 p.m., Mrs. Dorothy Sambrook, 40, of RD 3, Salineville, received a bruised right knee after a car driven by her husband, Pete Sambrook, 44, careened into a ditch. The patrol said Sambrook lost control of his auto while passing and went off the right side of Route 164, about three miles south of Route 518.

Fourth person injured was Jerry Brown, 31, Moundsville, W. Va., trucker. Brown's rig slid off the right side of Route 7 about three miles north of Route 30, Saturday at 4:40. The impact joined the trailer loose and it went over an embankment. Brown and contusions of the head.

In other accidents: Cars driven by Herbert Long, 33, of RD 1, Lisbon and Gary Orloff, 17 of Willowick collided Saturday at 7:05 a.m. on Route 45 about five miles north of Lisbon. Orloff skidding as he was attempting to climb a hill, was in the wrong lane when he was struck by Long's approaching car. Orloff was cited for driving left of center.

Cited After Accident Ronald Woomer Jr., 37, of East Liverpool tried to miss a hole in the pavement of Route 267, about one mile north of East Liverpool, and struck a car operated by Robert Hall, 23, of East Liverpool. Woomer was cited for driving left of center after the mishap Saturday at 3 p.m.

A car owned by Paul Burns, 35, of East Liverpool, parked unoccupied on Route 267, about three miles north of East Liverpool was struck by two cars about 3:30 p.m. Saturday. An auto driven by Thomas Smith, 19, of East Liverpool struck the rear of the Burns car moments before another auto driven by Charles Brahan, 20, of RD 2, Lisbon hit it.

The patrol cited Smith and Brahan for driving without the assured clear distance and Burns for parking on the highway.

Saturday at 2:45 p.m. on Alternate Route 14, one half mile west of Route 14, cars driven by Harold Hahn, 65, of Ruskin Fla. and William Weikart, Jr. 16, of Edward Circle Columbiana collided as Hahn tried to pass Weikart.

Syria Asked To Join With Other Nations

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Syria's new revolutionary regime was urged today to join four other pro-Nasser Arab states in a joint military command as a step toward uniting the Arab world from the Atlantic Ocean to the Persian Gulf.

The unity proposal was made by Iraqi Deputy Premier Ali Sa'leh El Saadi, who came to Damascus to help Syria celebrate Friday's bloodless coup. He proposed that Syria, Iraq, the United Arab Republic, Algeria and Yemen form the unified command.

El Saadi said the five nations' armies should be empowered to cross the borders of any of the five states "in the event of being threatened by outside aggression." They also could intervene if member governments were menaced by "an internal plot backed by imperialism to topple the progressive government."

El Saadi also urged the four countries to join Iraq in a council for political planning as another step toward unity.

Syrians gave a rousing welcome to the Iraqi delegation, whose government seized power a month ago. The Iraqi coup, like Syria's

Puts New Strain on Nations' Relations

Ex-Premier of France Discovered In Germany

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—The discovery of former French Premier Georges Bidault in Bavaria put a new strain on French-West German relations today.

Bidault, political chief of the terrorist movement sworn to overthrow President Charles de Gaulle was located by German police Sunday in a lakeside hideout near the Swiss border. He asked immediately for asylum in West Germany.

Bidault's request for asylum was referred to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who was expected to order him expelled to some third country, probably Austria or Switzerland. Extradition to France appeared unlikely, since he is wanted on a political charge—treason. Extradition on political charges is barred by international law.

Bidault was living in the house of a Dutch magazine writer in the village of Steinbach, on Lake Woerthesee southeast of Munich.

A dozen police officers entered the house before dawn. Bidault asked for police protection saying he feared attempts on his life.

Bavarian Interior Minister Heindl is on a list of undesirable

Europe to Get Tourists

Yanks to Rub Shoulders With Britons On Continent

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst NEW YORK (AP)—Europe may be mightily crowded with Americans this spring and summer. And when they get across the English Channel they may be competing with a record number of Britishers for room on the Continent's highways and for viewing space in the cathedrals.

Europeans predict visiting Americans will cross the one million mark this year for the first time. Last year about 920,000, other than military dependents and government personnel, went there. Washington officials expect their spent about $623 million, excluding transatlantic transportation costs.

Continental Europe also counts on playing host to most of the three million British subjects who are expected to leave their island for vacations or other travel, some 300,000 more than a year ago.

Both the American and British tourists are stepping up their plans to drive themselves, either in their own or rented cars. American motorists on European highways may reach 300,000 this year, up 50,000 from last.

The British Automobile Association reports air and sea ferries across the Channel are heavily booked by motorists for the peak summer months. The chill between the British and French governments over the Paris veto of London's entry into the Common Market apparently hasn't dulled the allure of the Continent for vacationing islanders.

Travel agents estimate more than a third of the European-bound Americans will be repeat travelers, many seeking out of the way tourist attractions.

Student travel from the United States has doubled in six years. This year Washington expects to issue some 100,000 passports to students.

Economy Air Flights

There is a big rise this year in reservations for economy class air travel. Americans probably will spend less per person after they get on the other side. This economy trend started two years ago when Washington began stressing the dangers of tourist spending's increasing the deficit of international payments the United States is striving to trim. One measure was cutting the dollar amount of foreign purchases an American could bring back duty free.

An American Express check of travel offices, hotels, car rental agencies, motorcoach and sight-seeing operators and the European Travel Commission foreshadows the arrival of 500,000 American visitors in London, up 9 per cent from last year; 437,000 in Paris, up 7 per cent; 396,000 in Rome, up 10 per cent; and 321,000 in Madrid, up 7 per cent. And 9,000 Americans may go to Moscow, against 6,500 in 1962. Most of the other 56 cities polled look for increases.

Seventeen transatlantic airlines in the International Air Transport Association predict gains of 10 to 20 per cent in traffic. From June to September they have scheduled a record 487 flights a week, providing 63,000 seats.

The Transatlantic Passenger Conference reports steamship departures increased 4.7 per cent in 1962. It predicts surface travel will at least equal last year's.

SPEAKS AT BG

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Dr. Donald C. Herzberg, director of Rutgers University's Eagleton Institute of Politics, said here Friday night it is the duty of American colleges and universities to prepare future leaders for the responsibilities of public service.

Speaking at Bowling Green University, Herzberg said "colleges today are producing graduates who are ignorant of government and politics, or, worse than that, cynical about them."

Leetonia School Head To Talk For Initiations

LEETONIA — Victor Wood, superintendent of the Leetonia Exempted Village School District, will speak at East Liverpool and East Palestine high schools during March at initiation ceremonies of the National Honor Society.

Formed in 1921 by the National Association of Secondary School Principals, the National Honor Society has more than 6,000 chapters in United States High Schools. The organization chooses members on the basis of scholarship, character, service and leadership.

Leetonia Methodist Church will be the meeting place of the Leetonia-Washingtonville Kiwanis Club the rest of the month. The guest speaker Tuesday will be Dr. Jack Schreiber, whose topic will be "Medicare."

Ladies Night will be March 26.

MORE THAN 35 members and guests attended the coverdsh dinner held by the Ladies Catholic Benevolent Association Thursday in the school hall. The Sisters of the St. Patrick School were special guests.

A St. Patrick's theme in decorations was carried out on both the table and in the hall. Movies were shown of important events at St. Patrick's from 1958 to 1962.

An immunization clinic will be held from 9:30 to 10 a.m. Tuesday for kindergarten and first grade pupils entering school for the first time this fall.

Immunizations for whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus, and polio and smallpox vaccinations will be available to any children who have not or cannot receive these immunizations from their family physician.

Immunization against these diseases is required of all children before entering school.

Members of Leetonia Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star will be guests of the Columbiana Chapter of the OES Tuesday.

NINETEEN MEMBERS of the Leetonia Woman's Society of Christian Service were guests Friday of the WSCS of the Washingtonville Methodist Church. Mrs. Leslie Tingle, president of the Society, opened the meeting with a hymn and prayer. Mrs. Clarence Baker had devotions and read a story.

A solo was sung by Mrs. Eileen Farmer, accompanied by Mrs. Merle Cutchall.

A book titled "Preacher's Kids" was reviewed by Mrs. William Dalrymple. The meeting closed with Mrs. Tingle leading benediction.

Lunch was served in the dining room of the church by women of the church.

Floral Display Planned For Columbiana Group

COLUMBIANA — Ron Beckham of Sittler's Florists will demonstrate flower arrangements and explain how to start seeds at the Welcome Wagon Newcomer's Club meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Valley Golf Club.

Members are asked to bring cloth to be used for making cancer pads, spools of white thread and children's books to be sent to Japanese children.

Hostess will be Mrs. Marvin Lunde.

Pictures of boat and ski activities will be shown at the Columbiana Boat and Ski Club meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Theron's Club room.

The committee for the meeting are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eckert and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cope. James J. Kennedy, zone manager for Investors Diversified Services, Inc., has been commended for outstanding work during his company's fall sales campaign.

Kennedy, rated among the top 25 salesmen in the eastern region, has earned membership in the Sales Executive Club and President's Club.

SUSAN FERRALL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard E. Ferrall of 144 Seventh St., has been named to the dean's list at Wittenberg University for the first semester. Miss Ferrall was one of 17 students earning a straight "A" academic average.

Classes designed to present information to persons never having had the opportunity to hear the Lutheran Church's concept of truths and Christianity, will begin at 7:30 tonight in the basement of Jerusalem Lutheran Church.

All interested members of the community are invited to attend. At the end of the sessions, membership will be open to persons wishing to join the church.

Lutheran Church members are also urged to attend the classes as a means of reviewing their faith.

Rev. Thomas E. Rehl, pastor of Jerusalem and Zion Lutheran Churches, will conduct the classes, which will continue for a 12-week period.

A CANDLELIGHT MUSICAL service, which will be open to the public, will be a feature of the April 3 program of the Columbiana Music Study Club.

Organ, piano, instrumental and vocal selections, along with several numbers by the Music Club Chorus will be presented at the service which begins at 8:5 p.m. in the Presbyterian Church.

At the Wednesday meeting of the Music Study Club at the home of M. John Golden, the development of movie music from the era of the silent film to the present time was outlined. Included was television theme music, with the characters from the program being pantomimed to the accompaniment of appropriate music.

A slat satirizing television commercials, written by Mrs. Kenneth Rowland and Mrs. Donald Durr. Miss Georgeanne Race was co-hostess.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT

The 'Why' of the Awkward Age

The awkward age occurs in boys and girls in their early teens, and is a cause of much embarrassment to the children and amusement to the parents. But few people understand the reasons for it.

The explanation is simple. It is a matter of a change in the growth pattern, and coincides with the period when a parent will find that "Bill shot up like a weed," or "Susan outgrows her dresses faster than I can buy her new ones."

Bill, who has been used to reaching for his glass of milk when it was just an arm's length away, measures the same distance with his eye but reaches with an arm suddenly grown an inch longer. He overshoots the mark, spills the milk, and is told to quit being a bull in a china shop. He simply hasn't had time to adjust to the new length of his arms.

SUSAN, WHO HAS always prided herself on her poise, finds herself unaccountably stumbling over stairs or curbs. She just hasn't gotten used to the increase in her height, especially in the length of her legs. Alice in Wonderland had the same trouble when she first fell down the rabbit hole, but in a more acute form.

The whole point to this account is that it pays to understand the reasons behind these natural phenomena. This should lead to a lessened feeling of frustration on the part of the child and more patience on the part of the parents. It might even be a good thing to discard the phrase "awkward age," and call it by its right name — the period of rapid development.

Q—What causes blue babies? What should be done at birth to save their lives? If they survive, do they have a tendency to have convulsions?

A—The most frequent causes of blue babies are congenital defects of the heart. One such defect allows venous blood to flow directly into the aorta from the right side of the heart, the side that should normally send the venous blood to the lungs to exchange carbon dioxide for oxygen.

Other defects are openings between the right and left sides of the heart which are normal in the embryonic stage, but which should close completely before the baby is born. Still another defect is a narrowing of the artery that carries blood from the heart to the lungs.

All of these defects may be present at once in a blue baby, but they do not usually represent an immediate threat to life. In the days before surgical treatment of these conditions, the average life span of a blue baby was 12 years. A few lived as long as 45 years.

THESE CHILDREN were, however, severely limited in their physical activity. On the whole, they survived such infections as whooping cough and pneumonia amazingly well. They had no greater tendency to have convulsions than a normal child.

In 1945, Drs. Blalock and Taussig devised an operation that restored the heart function to normal and gave these children a chance at a normal life span with normal activity. In 1946, Dr. Potts and his colleagues devised another operation which achieved the same end.

The ideal time for operation is usually when the child is between 2 and 6, but in some severe cases the operation may be performed at 4 months. In milder cases it may be postponed until the child is in his teens.

During 1962, the 79 million cars, buses and trucks operating on the streets and highways of the United States killed a record 41,000 Americans, injured 1.5 million more and cost $7 billion in insurance claims, personal injuries and property damage.

Hints From Heloise
By HELOISE CRUSE
DEAR HELOISE: I use quite a few dried fruits for breakfast, for tarts, etc. The night before I want the fruit, I put it in an enamel pan, cover the fruit with water, place the lid on the pan, and set it on the pilot light of my gas stove.
In the morning the fruit is plump and ready for use. Season to taste before using.
And here's a hint for anyone with a sewing machine: I sew the creases in my husband's work pants, using a medium stitch, and sewing as close to the creased edge as possible. This makes for easier ironing, and the pants have a neat look even when soiled.
I also sew the cuffs in. I call this "husband insurance"—that way there is no danger of his catching the cuff on his heel or on anything which might cause him to fall.
MRS. LEO C. AUSTIN.

Spring's Near; Now's Time To Finish Indoor Projects

The last call for indoor projects is upon us.

You can increase the optimism that spring is just behind those seed catalogs that have arrived, by examining those indoor work chores before outdoor brush-up time is upon us. The mere thought that another winter chapter is closing may strengthen our paint brush stroke.

It's a waste of time to do some jobs now. Postpone patching ceilings unless the leak is due to something indoors. If you don't know its source, wait until missing shingles can be checked and gutters inspected.

JOB THAT REQUIRE assists from floor tilers, carpenters and cabinet makers should be done now. Many people postpone building new counter tops and kitchen cabinets through the winter when workmen are likely to be at ease, and then can't get the jobs done when the experts are in demand. If you don't want the mess now, at least get on the list of the professional.

Many jobs have been made easier and less costly for do-it-yourselfers, and the installation of shelves has become a cinch project. Precut shelves, adjustable metal wall strips and brackets solve this problem so neatly that many professional carpenters use them. Shelves are available in all sorts of finished and unfinished woods, some stained, some painted, all in a great variety of lengths and widths that fit brackets designed for them.

SHELVES SOLVE THE problem in many situations. In the kitchen they are ideal for those seldom-used appliances that take up cupboard space. In a child's room, they can keep the floor space clear by absorbing games, books, toys, record players. In the bathroom, shelves may be put up to hold the supply of towels the entire family will need for a week. A spare closet can be lined with shelves to hold cleaning supplies, sports equipment, sewing gizmos.

New floor materials are easier for do-it-yourselfers to install as they do not require fitting pieces together. Cushioned vinyls, bought by the yard, need little trimming if accurate measurements are made in advance. These may be put down easily by do-it-yourselfers. Some floor tiles are easier to put down than others, but directions have been simplified so that most home workmen can understand them.

A PAINT JOB THAT IS postponed frequently is the stairwell. It requires a little more ingenuity and courage than painting other areas of the home as one does not relish teetering on the brink of a ladder balanced in a precarious position. But the long attachment that may be put on a paint roller can do the job well. Some painters attach a paint brush first to the attachment, painting the area between ceiling and wall, particularly the corners, then use the roller for the additional work.

Most people enjoy work outdoors when spring rolls around, but it spoils it all if we must worry about patching, painting or improving the home indoors when the warm weather is upon us.

When Buying Seeds, Plants, It Pays To Look for Best

When you order or buy seeds or plants, it pays to look for the best. The best are not necessarily the most expensive. But they aren't the bargain-priced material, either.

Look for high quality products, true to name. Most plants and seeds of quality are grown by specialists in the business. You can buy plants and seeds almost anywhere today. Go to the specialist who buys from specialists, if he doesn't grow the items himself. Check comparable quality anywhere you buy.

SEEDS CAN BE PURCHASED in packets in almost any hardware, department store or general store, as well as in garden centers. You can get seeds by mail from the person who specializes in just a few kinds of plants, or from the large seed companies which grow a full line. Mail order has more advantages for buying seeds than plants, especially big ones. Catalogues give you a great variety for selection, and you can take your time in picking and choosing before ordering.

THE BEST SEEDS AREN'T necessarily in the fanciest packages, either. Look for seeds from a reputable firm, with variety, size of growth and planting instructions on the package. Some seed houses sell to commercial growers and still date the small packages by year, also. They also give the percentage of germination.

In buying plants, there is a great advantage in going to your local nurseryman who grows them. If you want landscaping or planting information, you can get it before you buy, and for specific plants. Remember that local authorities know local conditions.

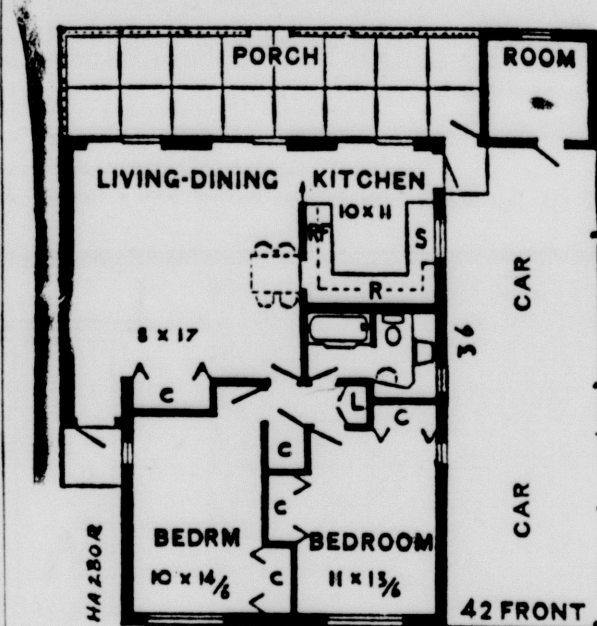

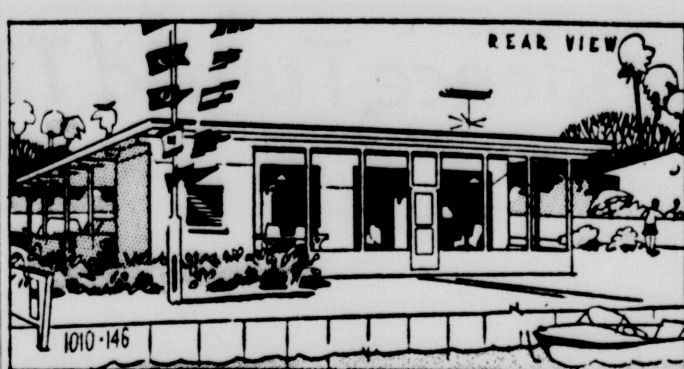

YOU CAN STUDY MANY different kinds of plants as they grow and examine those that appeal to you in color, shape, size of leaf and growth pattern. Inspect the same plant in a variety of sizes, so you have a better idea of how and where to plant it.

Building Permits

Housing construction and home improvements were given the green light by the city engineer's office recently.

A permit was granted to erect a family home with a garage on Lot 4 on Southeast Blvd. at a cost of $18,000. Gene Zilavy Construction Co. of Salem will build the home.

Other permits were granted for remodeling a bathroom at a home owned by Dillie Smalley of 656 Jennings Ave. at a cost of $300 and to John Martin of 166 N. Union to remodel a kitchen at a cost of $800.

WATERFRONT RETIREMENT HOME, HA280R, has five rooms plus screened porch and carport. The screened porch, 8 by 34 feet and 10 feet high, faces the waterfront. The carport is extra deep, allowing for both a car and a boat. A small, separate utility room is handy to the kitchen; it could be used for laundry appliances, darkroom or workshop. A door insures quiet between the bedrooms and the day area. Architect for Plan HA280R, which contains 1,010 square feet of floor space, is Jan Reiner, 1000 52nd St. North, St. Petersburg 10, Fla.

When Finishing Extra Room, Exercise Your Imagination

When finishing an extra room — whether in the attic, basement or anywhere else — you have an opportunity to exercise your imagination. If the structural portion of the project is sound, there's no reason why you can't work out different effects to suit your fancy.

Nobody is suggesting that you put up four walls of four different types of materials and designs. But you can create an interesting result if one of those walls is unlike the other three. We recently saw on such installation where three of the walls were made of 4 by 8 sheets of hardwood plywood. The fourth wall was covered with a plastic-faced hardboard which caught your attention the moment you entered the room.

LET'S ASSUME YOU decided to install flexible plastic tiles in the kitchen. Instead of selecting a single color and design, you might try choosing the bamboo-effect tiles for three walls and the mahogany-finish tiles for the fourth.

Putting up wood paneling? How about installing the panels horizontally instead of vertically, if not on all the walls, then on one of them? Beside the different effect, there's an extra dividend. If the wooden studs have been erected evenly, you can do away with the installation of furring strips over the studs. The panels can be nailed directly into the studs when placed horizontally, which means a considerable savings in both time and costs.

HERE'S HOW A FRIEND of ours solved a major problem and at the same time produced a luxury result. His original idea was to finish a basement room with 4 by 8 sheets of plywood. But the basement ceiling height varied from 7 feet 2 inches to 6 feet 11 inches, a fairly common condition because basement floors often slant toward a drain. This meant that each piece of plywood would have to be cut at the top. After some consideration he decided to place the plywood sheets lengthwise; that is, with the 8-foot side running horizontal, the 4-foot side running vertical. He used squares of striated plywood to fill the space above the plywood sheets. By selecting 16-inch squares, he was able to nail them directly into the studs, which were set 16 inches apart on center.

THUS, WHEN HE GOT to the last row of squares, he was able to cut them easily, compared with the otherwise arduous task of cutting the ops off large plywood sheets. Most important of all, his room was strikingly different.

If you're thinking about using gypsum board, remember that it now comes in many different styles and shapes. One type has V-grooved joints, eliminating the necessity of filling the joints with patching cement.

Heating-Cooling Unit Names Kelly, Riffle

A Salem and a Lisbon man have been named to offices in the newly-formed Greater Youngstown Area Better Heating-Cooling Council.

They are John F. Kelly of the Lisbon-Canfield Rd., Lisbon, who is secretary, and Kermit Riffle of the Pine Lake Rd., Salem, on the board of directors.

President of the group is F. E. L. Grove of New England Lane, Youngstown.

Fifty plumbing and heating contractors representing Youngstown and the surrounding communities such as Salem, East Palestine, Lowellville and Lisbon are supporting the Council, Kelly said.

The group will have an exhibit at the 12th annual Mahoning Valley Home & Garden Show at Idora Park ballroom March 12-17 to inform homeowners regarding the merits and advantages of hydronic (hot water) heat.

Maybe Bliss Has the Answer

We are intrigued by the E. W. Bliss Company's recent announcement that its Eagle Signal Division and the Motorola Co. have designed and engineered a revolutionary new concept in radio traffic control. It's being used right now in Tampa, Fla.

Any motorist who has tried to figure out the synchronization of Salem's traffic signal lights would appreciate relief from the familiar start-stop, stop-start traffic movement here. A Lisbon woman recently complained that "my husband drives to Salem twice a day to his job. It takes him just as long to go through Salem as it does for him to travel the distance to Salem." She blames the traffic lights.

Perhaps the solution to Salem's oft-mentioned "unsynchronized" traffic signals can be found right here at home. Bliss has it. City officials could at least find out from Bliss if the Tampa system could be adapted to meet the requirements of a smaller city.

It was instituted at Tampa to establish smooth traffic flows by coordinating and synchronizing intersection signals. Coordination is achieved by sending radio signals to put specific functions into effect. Radio coordination of signals enables motorists, driving at designated speeds, to receive all green lights along a given street. The system also has the flexibility to instantly meet any sudden changes in traffic conditions.

No One Has a Solution

When the five railroad brotherhoods and management representatives meet in Chicago next Wednesday, every wage earner and salaried employee with a job that might be sacrificed to business efficiency will have a stake in the discussion.

No one has a solution to the problem of the worker thrown out of employment as a consequence of automation, changing methods and the search for lower operating costs.

But everyone bears a conviction it is no solution to throw the economic and social burden on society as a whole, adding employees no longer needed to top-heavy relief rolls and lengthening the odds against re-employment for breadwinners already on the rolls.

The railroad brotherhoods talk about striking to show their anger over management's decision to accept a presidential railroad commission's recommendation to eliminate firemen on all freight and mail trains. This would mean laying off some 13,000 firemen immediately and not replacing about 40,000 others when they retired, quit, or died. The 13,000 would be workmen with less than 10 years' seniority.

BUT A STRIKE would accomplish nothing, except further aggravation of already strained relations in the railroad industry

Following the Election Returns

Even the U.S. Supreme Court, it has been pointed out, follows the election returns. Jurisprudence keeps track of public opinion, as it should and must in a government answerable to its people.

Political parties follow the election returns for the same reason Republican leadership, meeting over last weekend in Washington, declares it is buoyed up by voting gains in the South and West, by gains in suburbia and on the farm, but discouraged by the defection of New England and failure to make headway in big cities and depressed areas.

Inside the party councils this is shaping up as a debate between Republicans who want to go after vote hot and heavy, even at the cost of scuttling civil rights positions that have endured since the Civil War, and Republicans who believe their party must stick to the moderate guns it has been manning in recent years under Thomas E. Dewey, Dwight Eisenhower and Richard M. Nixon.

THESE REPUBLICANS want to compete with Democrats for votes in the big cities. The others are inclined to go after the votes of the Democratic opposition wherever they are found in significant concentration and let the big cities alone.

No More Whiskers By Truman Twill

J. Edgar Hoover, the FBI man, always has fascinated me. He continues to fascinate me with his account of Soviet spying for Associated Press.

Nothing could be further from the truth, he says, than the idea that a Soviet spy can be identified on sight.

The greatest danger to our national security, according to him, is that a Soviet spy might be anybody, as far as appearance is concerned.

This is the same thing as saying it might be everybody — as far as appearance is concerned. If he wanted to deepen the jitters this country's obsession about Communist infiltration is generating, the head of our highly respected Bureau of Investigation couldn't have hit a more sensitive nerve.

Some of us can remember when Communists could be spotted on sight. Anyone could tell a Bolshevik by the universal trademark. He always had a bushy black beard, shock of unruly hair, heavy glasses and if he was for real he carried a bomb with the fuse smoking.

In those simpler times, this is what we looked for when we hunted Bolsheviks. And what was a Bolshevik? He was the precursor of a Communist. No Communist now would dream of looking like a Bolshevik. No one would believe it.

As FBI Director Hoover points out, Communists — Soviet spies — look like everybody else. This is becoming more so all the time. For a while, a Russian political functionary gave himself away by wearing clothes that looked as if he had gathered them up in the dark of night from a period costume wardrobe room. Then Russians began to have their clothes tailored for them in Italy.

and perhaps a stronger determination to impose restrictions on Unions that strike against public welfare.

What the negotiators in Chicago must look for is a formula to soothe tense relations in the railroad industry and promise to be effective in other industries that come up against the same problem.

The railroad industry has been thinking in this direction. It does not want to turn its unneeded employees out of railroad employment if they can be retrained and adapted to jobs in the industry. Granting that its aim is to trim payrolls, the industry nevertheless has said it would like to replace employees leaving employment with employees whose jobs are due to disappear.

WHEN KAISER Steel Corp. broke ranks in the 1959 steel strike, its pact with United Steelworkers called for a long-range plan to divide the "fruits of progress" between workers and stockholders.

A committee working on the plan reported a savings-sharing formula for the Fontana, Calif., plant. Profit from increased productivity would underwrite the cost of keeping displaced workers from being thrown into the job market when Kaiser eliminated their jobs. They would be retrained for other jobs.

Kaiser workers approved the plan in January. It went into effect March 1.

They can point to the Democratic party's success in taking advantage of the opposition's weakness.

Starting in 1932, it took shrewd advantage of defections from the Republican party to build a political juggernaut that carried it to five successive thumping victories in presidential elections.

In the course of doing this, it was to abandon or distort just about every position that had been held long enough to be classified as a Democratic principle.

But by following the election returns instead of principles, it turned a shaky coalition into an unbeatable majority. When dissident Democrats objected from time to time as they did starting with John J. Raskob and James A. Farley, they were permitted to shout themselves hoarse, because in the end they would return to the party organization if influential and if they weren't the Republicans were welcome to them.

THE FACT is that the dissidents did return to the organization, if they left it. Some of them never left it, because they had nowhere to go. Politicians, too, follow the election returns.

Thinking well of everybody is one of the roads to real happiness.

But they had another even tell-tale distinction—stainless steel teeth. That one faded, too. They still wear hats as if they were doing a takeoff on Buster Keaton, but some of them are foxy enough now to go bareheaded.

The only sure-fire way to spot a Soviet spy would be if he spoke Russian. But they've thought of that, too. They speak the local patois like natives. Many of them couldn't speak Russian if their lives depended on it.

Unless you knew their innermost thoughts, no one could be sure of cornering a Soviet spy, which is the gist of Mr. Hoover's message to his countrymen via AP. He has pointed out, though, that this has been no special problem for the FBI. It is on top of the spy situation at all times. It's the rest of us he worries about.

It makes us aging citizens yearn for that uncomplicated era when everything was knowable. A Bolshevik wore a bear and carried a smoking bomb. A tycoon wore a stovepipe hat and had a gold watch chain draped across his lard belly. Poor people looked ragged. Rich people looked rich.

Uncle Sam had a white goatee, U.S. senators wore string ties, gay ladies wore rouge, honest, upright workmen carried lunch buckets and wore their shirts unbuttoned, newspapermen wore hats indoors like detectives, thieves acted furtive, good guys wore white, bad ones wore black, Irishmen were always gassed-up and all Scotsmen were thriffrity.

There were a thousand signs. There was a place for everything and everything was in its place. It isn't that way now. What it amounts to is that anyone might be a Soviet spy and should be so regarded until proved otherwise.

Public Confidence Turned Tide 30 Years Ago

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Your devoted commentator, sometime servant of Franklin D. Roosevelt and a participant in the activities of March 4, 1933, has observed a rule recommended to all senior citizens, which is to permit anniversaries to pass without note.

My physician, whom I visit twice a year and who ministers to many elderly ladies and gentlemen, has a poem posted in his office which says, in effect, "Forget the past. Reminiscence is a disease of the elderly."

With this in mind and with Mr.

Kennedy's merry crew providing rich pasturage for an active journalist, I decided to skip this 30th anniversary of those days when the banks rose from the wreckage and the nation awakened from a winter of austerity.

Indeed, I recently have declined to appear on certain programs designed to commemorate those battles long ago.

I realize that I was asked not because of my screen appeal but because I might provide interest for antiquarians.

BUT DURING the last week, what with inclement March weather, I sought entertainment indoors of esteemed individuals whom I knew well three decades ago, blinking in the light of another man-made sun risen at twilight.

These individuals were subjected to questions by impresarios whose knowledge of history was like Sam Weller's acquaintance with London, "extensive but peculiar."

The general performance was such that the tortured goddess of history cried out in agony. And so, without further ado, I would remind another generation of certain events of which they are the more or less unhappy heirs.

None of the individual witnesses who survived those days and appeared on those programs was close to the heart of affairs in March 1933 except Henry Wallace and Rex Tugwell, and they were busy with the Department on Agriculture and not with the matters which I shall note. Most had not even met Roosevelt at that time.

All seemed concerned with vague philosophical speculations about history's niche for the manor figure of that time and with comparing those days with these. That is to compare the incomparable.

WHAT CONCERNED me most was the lugubrious nature of their descriptions of those days. The climate was not sad at all. It was not a moment for weeping. The locusts had not devoured the land.

If the court please, I rise to say that it was a most joyous time in Washington. A long winter was approaching its end. The buds were waiting in the branches.

The sap was rising in the trees. And the saps who came later were not yet crowding the trains and highways.

The time had not arrived when they would be flailing about with great but misdirected "vigah."

Even before the new President took the oath, a small team of trained individuals was grappling with the bank troubles and the budget.

The problem first was to close all banks and then to begin a process of opening them in a climate of safety. Also to cut federal expenditures to the very bone.

With these purposes Roosevelt was heartily in sympathy. For at that time he was a prudent, economical and orthodox statesman.

THE KNOWLEDGE of what might be done was with the members of the Hoover administration who remained after the inauguration to help in a common non-partisan cause.

The Hoover administration knew what should be done, but a Democratic Congress had for two years followed a policy of political frustration. The Roosevelt administration and the Congress elected with it had the mandate. Together, they saw that what could be done was done.

In dealing with the banks, the Hoover appointees were former Treasury Secretary Ogden L. Mills and his under secretary, Arthur A. Ballantine; F. G. Awalt, acting comptroller of the currency, and Jesse H. Jones, then a member and later chairman of the RFC.

The Roosevelt appointees were Treasury Secretary William Woodin and Budget Director Lewis W. Douglas. I served ex-officio as Woodin's assistant, although my office was in another department.

The banks were closed under the authority of an old law passed in 1917. The emergency legislation which provided for their reopening was sent to Congress even before it assembled on March 9 and was passed a few hours later.

The next day, March 10, a message and bill went to Congress cutting the budget drastically. This bill was passed on March 20.

THE PLANNING of those moves was mostly in the office of the secretary of the treasury where, as I wrote some years later, "this group of men had forgotten to be Republicans and Democrats. They were just a bunch of men trying to save the banking system."

All were conservative and orthodox. And capitalism was saved in eight days.

What came later is another story. But the country I'd met that happened, and confidence turned the tide.

Brandt's Future In Germany

By RAWLE KNOX

Herald Tribune News Service
BONN — The resounding electoral success in Berlin of Socialist Mayor Willy Brandt has put great heart into the Social Democrats in Bonn.

One Social Democrat deputy, referring to recent suggestions that Konrad Adenauer feared that the addition of Britain and the Scandinavian countries to the European Community might turn it socialist, remarked that West Germany could be the first to go socialist.

Dr. Joseph Dufhues, manager of Chancellor Adenauer's Christian Democratic Union, has already begun an inquest on his Party's failure in Berlin. The Christian Democratic vote dropped by nearly 10 per cent.

THE RESULT came just as a West German Research Institute showed that while the Social Democrats were in fact losing the working class vote, they were increasing their total followers. In fact the SPD is becoming a strong rival to the CDU, among the middle class.

Berlin is a special case, by no means typical of all West Germany. But Herr Brandt in increasing his Party's seats in the 133 member Assembly from 78 to 89 has illuminated a general discontent over Bonn's foreign policy, which is especially felt by Berliners. Nearly 90 per cent of the voters went to the polls, despite subfreezing temperatures and an influenza epidemic.

One special cause of annoyance to Berliners was the action of deputy Mayor, Franz Amrehn, in blocking Herr Brandt's move to meet Mr. Khrushchev, when the latter was in East Berlin last month. Dr. Adenauer had made no objection to the meeting, but Dr. Amrehn threatened to break up Berlin's coalition if Herr Brandt went ahead with it.

The gesture appeared a particularly spiteful one, since the Social Democrats in fact had a sufficient majority in the Assembly to be able to govern without the CDU.

HERR BRANDT, however, held his hand. And there was no meeting with Mr. Khrushchev. After his success at the polls, the Mayor's first public statement was that if there should be any coalition in the future it must be on his terms. Herr Brandt has consented to coalition rule in the past in order to present the broadest possible front against the Communists.

The Communist percentage of the West Berlin vote dropped from its 1.9 of five years ago to 1.3. This was despite an election bait from East Berlin, offering an easing of pass regulations to East Berlin relatives of those who voted Communist in the West.

The subject of freer movement between East and West Berlin was one about which Herr Brandt had wished to talk to Mr. Khrushchev. The Berlin vote shows that the citizens are prepared for Herr Brandt to negotiate, but that they are not accepting purely Communist terms.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Men make unkind remarks about what we women wear. I'd like to express my views on men's fashions. The thing men call a suit is the most unimaginative, the dullest getup ever stitched together.

Why must men's suits be so drab? Why always a lifeless gray or a muddy brown? The grays are not even true grays. And the blacks are not true blacks.

Men should rebel against lead colors which have been foisted on them by convention-bound manufacturers. Let them demand electric blue, shocking pink and emerald green. And why not an occasional floral pattern to liven up a dreary day?

Don't say it can't be done, Ann. All it takes is a ball of fire like you to get behind the idea. Will you join me in this great crusade to revolutionize the men's clothing industry? — LOVER OF COLOR.

Dear Lover: Sorry, but you'll have to revolutionize the men's clothing industry without this "ball of fire." I haven't the faintest interest in seeing men in shocking pink or electric blue suits.

In the kingdom of our feathered friends the male has the colorful plumage to attract the female. The human male does just fine in his muddy browns and charcoal grays.

Dear Ann: Please tell me if I am right or wrong to ask my husband to do this simple thing. Milton is a truck driver. I know he can take a coffee break any time he wants to. He leaves the house very morning at 6:30 a.m. By 8 o'clock he is ready for a cup of coffee.

I want Milton to come by the house and take our 8-year-old daughter to school. She is susceptible to colds and is recovering now from the mumps.

He says he can't do it because it may interfere with his job. I believe he is just making up excuses because he doesn't want to be bothered.

Milton thinks you are a smart woman. Maybe he'll listen to you. Please print your advice so he can see it.—TROUBLED.

Dear Troubled: The advice is for you, not Milton. Your husband isn't driving that truck for kicks, Lady. It's his job and it's your bread and butter. It isn't fair to him — or to his employer — to try to saddle him with family assignments during his working day.

Not So Dumb

Dear Ann: We raised our niece right along with our own children. Clara's parents died when she was 9 and we treated her as if she were our daughter.

Last May she married a young man who is pleasant but brainless. He has a steady job at a mill and makes good money.

My husband and I own a little grocery store. Every Friday without fail Clara and her husband come to the store and fill up two or three large shopping bags with whatever they need. Clara says, "Thanks a lot," and they drive off.

Is it possible they don't know we have to pay for our merchandise? I just can't believe it, but since they're both pretty stupid that may be the answer.

My husband is fed up with this weekly ritual. Would it be petty if we came right out and told them how we feel? As I said she is like a daughter to us.—DWINDLING INVENTORY.

Dear Dwindling: Tell these moochers they can have whatever they need at the price YOU pay for it. This is a much better deal than they can get elsewhere.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

History Today

Today is Monday, March 11, the 70th day of 1963. There are 295 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this day in 1888, what is probably the most famous blizzard in U. S. history began. It raged for three days and blanketed the East in one of the worst snowstorms ever. It left drifts of 10 to 30 feet in some cases and took at least 400 lives.

On this day: In 1314, the last military grand master of the Masonic Order of Knights Templar — Jacques de Molay — was burned at the stake.

In 1794, Congress approved the first appropriation for construction of the U.S. avy.

In 1861, the constitution of the Confederate States of America was adopted.

In 1926, Mississippi passed a law banning the teaching of evolution in state-supported schools.

In 1952, New Hampshire voters balloted in the first U.S. presidential primary.

Today's birthdays: Scientist Vannevar Bush is 73. King Frederik IX of Denmark is 64.

Thought for today: People will not look forward to posterity who never look backward to their ancestors—Edmund Burke.

Matter of Fact

The practice of filibustering in the United States Senate first came into use in 1841 against certain financial bills sponsored by Henry Clay, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Once peonies were eaten as medicine. Even the name of this magnificent flower means healing. It was known from ancient times, and called paeonia by the Greeks, after Paeon, the god of healing. As late as the 17th century its roots, flowers and seeds were used in medicine in England.

From the Mailbag

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Someone has figured that a man shaves about 20 square miles of face during his lifetime.

A recent study showed that most babies arrive between 2 and 5 o'clock in the morning, the fewest between 4 and 7 p.m.

Sign opposite Mount Carmel church in Poughkeepsie, N.Y.: "Thou shalt not park."

A poet in Spain sued his landlord, complaining that the landlord's mule had sneaked into his room and gobbled up a stack of unpublished manuscripts.

An average of 4,000 motorists a day run out of gas, according to the American Automobile Association.

Karl Marx, critic of capitalism, once was turned down for a railway clerical job in England because his handwriting was so poor.

A government statistician figured that if you paid $2,900 for an automobile, kept it 12 years and drove it 100,000 miles, the expense would be 10.1 cents a mile.

Our quotable notables: "No man knows where his business ends and his neighbor's begins"—Ed Howe.

Now that the famed Mona Lisa has left these shores, $3 wastebaskets featuring her portrait can be had for half price or less.

In case you've ever wondered how to attack soup served in a cup with two handles, it's perfectly proper to pick it up with a double-handed grip and drink it. Soups are now a $500-million annual industry in America.

If your child is looking for an uncrowded profession, tell him America could use six times as many plastic surgeons as it now has, twice as many heart specialists and three times as many psychiatrists.

Crimes of all kind take $16 million daily from the American pocketbook.

Quickies: Only one per cent of our people have journeyed abroad. A loud noise can dull your sense of smell. Half of all new cars are involved in an accident before they are finally scrapped. Americans have an average of 50 headaches a year.

Granges

Ellsworth Center

Ellsworth Center Grange met Tuesday at the Grange Hall. The Mahoning County Pomona Master, Harry Watkins, and Mrs. Watkins were guests.

After the regular meeting the degree team practiced degree work and Gene Manchester and Mrs. James Lowe served a lunch.

At the March 19 meeting the Juvenile Grange will serve a penny supper at 6:30 p.m. and both Juvenile and Subordinate Granges will be inspected by the Mahoning County Deputies, Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Flickinger.

Former Beloit Man In Peace Corps Serving In Ecuador

BELOIT — James V. Court, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Court of Beloit, has been working with the Peace Corps in the Ecuadorian Forest Service in Riobamba, Ecuador since October.

A graduate of Sebring McKinley High School, he graduated from Colorado State University in '60 with a degree in forestry.

After spending a year as park ranger at the National Monument in California, he began training for entrance into the Peace Corps in September at Montana State College.

In addition to his work with forestry, he spends time each day teaching English to the natives.

He reports that organizing a class is not difficult but that finding a place to meet often presents problems.

Census Bureau figures indicate that only 3 per cent of the population spends an entire lifetime in one dwelling and only 15 per cent remain in the same county throughout their lives.

Gayle Louise Garwood Bride of Jay R. Walters

Miss Gayle Louise Garwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Garwood of 481 Pearl St., Leetonia, and Jay R. Walters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Walters of RD 1, Rogers, exchanged vows at a 6:30 p.m. wedding Feb. 16 in St. Paul's Lutheran Church at Leetonia.

Rev. T. Paul Laughner presided at the double ring ceremony, and Miss Mary Lou Helt played traditional wedding music for the occasion.

The bride wore a street-length sheath dress of white brocade boasting a bolero jacket with white fur cuffs on the three-quarter sleeves. Her half-hat of white fur was trimmed with a tiny nose veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Miss Mary Oeler of Columbiana, maid of honor, wore a dress of red velvet with a white rose corsage and small white fur headpiece.

Mr. Walters chose his brother, Larry, to serve as best man.

Mrs. Garwood wore a deep rose wool dress and Mrs. Walters, mother of the bridegroom, a silk sheath of yellow and beige. Both complemented their outfits with corsages of white carnations.

Miss Joyce Baker registered the 120 guests who attended the reception at Heck's Restaurant in Columbiana following the ceremony.

A square four-tier white wedding cake trimmed with red roses and topped with a white dove centered the bride's table. White canles in branching candelabra lighted the decor.

Serving the guests were Miss Judith Davner of Lisbon, Miss Mary Ellen Lipp of Leetonia, Mrs. Thomas Rutzky of East Palestine, Miss Mary Lavelle and Mrs. Penny Anderson of Salem.

A graduate of Leetonia High

12 Persons Killed In Weekend Traffic

Traffic 12
Fire 6
Miscellaneous 5
Totals 17

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Automobile collisions that killed four persons near New Philadelphia and three in Cleveland pushed the Ohio weekend traffic toll to 12 known dead.

Besides those two accidents accounting for a big share of the deaths, there were three mishaps in which vehicles killed pedestrians.

The state's over-all accident toll was at least 17.

In non-traffic fatalities, two Columbus men died after drinking poison weed killer from a bottle they thought contained whisky.

Two Putnam County youngsters drowned and a Cincinnati man fell down a flight of hotel stairs.

The Associated press weekend survey covered the 54 hours between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

Guard Unit Plans Open House In Sebring

County Legion Warned of Red Menace

A warning about the Communist menace in the United States was issued by Stuart G. (Stu) Lugenbuhl, commander of the Ohio Department of the American Legion, at the 44th anniversary dinner of the Columbiana County Council of the Legion Saturday night.

Speaking before about 150 persons at the banquet at Valley Golf Club near Columbiana, Lugenbuhl decried the failure of American colleges and universities to screen speakers at school functions for Communist connections or beliefs.

He also spoke on the increase in the sale of Communist merchandise in American stores.

"With the cooperation of each member," Lugenbuhl concluded, "the American Legion will continue to have the strength to block any Communist drives in America."

Albert Hayes of Post 290, Columbiana, Columbiana County commander, introduced the speaker and guests who included 10th district officers—Commander Robert Knoble of Apple Creek; Dwight Bush of North George town, first vice commander; Jerry Knight, Massillon, second vice commander; and Mayor Lee Harold and Chief of Police William McGuckin and their wives of Columbiana.

James Cregar, commander of post 374, East Liverpool, and second vice commander of the county unit, was the master of ceremonies.

Essay Winners Honored

Dr. James Garstick, Post 290, Columbiana, presented awards to the American Legion essay winners, who also were guests of the county unit. They are:

Kathleen Scott of Columbiana and William Atchison of Winona, 9th graders; Carol Winegard and Erick Keck, Columbiana, 10th graders; Ina Grins and Jerry Wining, Columbiana, 11th graders; and Janie Heimbuck, Salem RD 2, and Galen Black, New Waterford RD 1, 12th graders.

Bernard Wright of Salineville, county chaplain, gave the invocation and benediction.

Dancing was held after the meeting.

Columbiana County Council presented the guest speaker an early American book table for his appearance here.

300 Attend VFW District Meeting

Atlee Reebe of Columbus, state adjutant of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, was the guest speaker at a VFW District 6 meeting Saturday and Sunday at the Lisbon post.

There were approximately 300 members and auxiliary members in attendance.

Other speakers included Rev. William Braun of Youngstown, past national chaplain; O. H. Auer of New Philadelphia and Atty. Howard Cole, both past state commanders.

A dance was held Saturday night at the post home, followed by VFW meetings at the post home and auxiliary sessions at the American Legion Home Sunday.

A cafeteria dinner was served at the post home.

Warren Nold is commander of the Lisbon post.

West Branch Board Faces Heavy Agenda

A certified list of teachers and administrators to be hired, rehired or dropped from the West Branch School District's roster will be a major item of discussion at the regular monthly meeting Tuesday night of the Board of Education.

The list will be submitted to Mahoning County Superintendent of Schools W. C. Smith for approval.

Executive head Clinton Heacock indicated some adjustments may be made in the administrative setup due to the impending move into the new high school building upon its completion.

The board recently toured the new structure just south of Beilert and will hold a discussion on the status of construction tomorrow night.

Also on the agenda is the matter of opening bids March 19 on the construction of the new 2,000-seat high school gymnasium plus the supplying and installation of fixed equipment for the cafeteria, art room, library and commercial and home economics departments. The gym alone is expected to cost about $176,000.

Final plans will be made on the school legislation public meeting to be held Wednesday night at 8 at the high school. Heacock said some 30 bills to be put before the State Legislature this season will be explained to West Branch district residents in the hope they will express their opinion to lawmakers.

Overpass

for and got a $45,000 loan for preliminary engineering which, if the project had not materialized, would not have had to be paid back. It now becomes a city obligation.

Service Roads to Be Built

The O'Horo Company said today that the first work to be done here will be the grading of two service roads for abutting properties so that persons living along the right-of-way will have rear entrances to their homes during construction.

The project completion date is July 31, 1964—nearly a year and a half, but O'Horo said he would complete the job before the deadline.

"Work on the service roads will take about a month," the contractor said, and then we will proceed to drive the pilings for the support structure. Theolegation of underground utilities will follow. Actual pouring of the heavy concrete supports for the overpass will be next on the schedule," he said.

During the time that W. State St. is blocked, it will be necessary to detour traffic over W. Pershing St., where a "No Parking" ban will be enforced, the mayor said. The State Highway department will set up the traffic detours.

The W. State St. overpass will be three-tenths of a mile in length, extending from Jennings Ave. to Sharp Ave.

The state has settled with the owners of all but eight abutting properties on W. State St. for right-of-way damages and court action has been filed against them.

has been 5.5 per cent or more. Last month it turned up to 6.1 per cent of the work force.

"Unemployment is our No. 1 economic problem," Kennedy told Congress. "It wastes the lives of men and women, depriving both them and the nation."

"Our continued underuse of human and physical (plant) capacity is costing us some $30 billion to $40 billion of additional goods and services annually. This means a considerably lower standard of living than we would otherwise enjoy."

"More seriously — ominously — it means we are doing less than our best in staffing ourselves for the struggle for freedom at home and abroad that now commands our energies and resources on an unprecedented scale, and in ever more demanding forms."

Work Progressing On Road Projects

Work on two Columbiana County projects is progressing rapidly, according to a report from Division 11 of the Ohio Department of Highways at New Philadelphia.

Almost half completed is the section of Route 30 extending from East Liverpool to Route 170 near Calcutta, bringing the 2.7 mile project ahead of schedule.

The two-tenths mile stretch of improved highway and bridge on State Route 172 is about one-fifth completed, the division states. The new bridge will replace an inadequate one.

Man Killed In Massillon Hospital Fire

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP)—A 49-year-old male patient from Canfield died today of burns received in a Massillon State Hospital fire officials said a 13-year-old patient set because he wanted to go home.

The victim was Leroy Golden, who was burned on the hands and face when he was trapped Sunday in the burning second-floor men's ward of a hospital building. Smoke choked off his escape route.

Fire Capt. Ralph Hansen estimated damage between $15,000 and $20,000.

Dr. M. B. Holmes, hospital superintendent, said the 13-year-old patient started the fire in drapes and mattresses to create a commotion because he wanted to flee.

The teen-ager, a patient for about a year, is not ready to go home because of emotional problems, Dr. Holmes said. The boy had not caused any trouble at the hospital in the past, he added.

Syria

was led by supporters of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

The Syrian coup is not expected to restore fully the Egypt-Syria union severed by an anti-Nasser coup in September 1961. Like the Iraqi regime, Prime Minister Salah Bitar's Syrian government is believed to favor a loose political federation.

Nasser's popularity was evident as celebrating Syrians carried huge portraits of him and chanted "Nasser! Nasser!" Tanks and army patrols roamed the capital. Security forces of the new regime hunted Communist leaders and other opponents of the Arab nationalist Ba'ath party. Anti-aircraft guns were set up in squares and outside government buildings.

Comedy Is Really Serious Business

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Comedy is a serious business. The hours are tough and long, pressures build, tempers grow short and sometimes things go wrong.

Courtesy of Shelley Berman and NBC, we spent the most important part of 24 hours Sunday night with the comedian as he prepared for a night club engagement in a big, ornate Florida resort hotel. Berman, looking tired and taut, even upon arrival by plane, plunged immediately into unfunny detail. He gave instructions about the props, the music, the lighting, even the seating in the night club holding 2,000 customers. He made certain no food would be served while he was onstage.

Finally, he was alone on the stage. Then, at the climax of his most important sketch, as he shifted delicately from comedy to poignancy, the shrill and urgent sound of a ringing telephone backstage ripped the mood fabric he had woven with such skill. The alien sound came like a real tragedy. Berman's fury, anguish and disappointment were unrestrained.

After an hour of brilliant entertainment, the comedian, almost in tears, cried: "It was a hard show and I won. And then they took away the beautiful moment—took away what I was trying to achieve."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Jack Paar turned the latter's Friday night program briefly into a combination of "Meet the Press" and "the Original Amateur Hour."

Nixon first said some sharp things about the administration—and then sat down at the piano. He seemed more at ease, however, discussing Cuba than making like Liberace—or even swapping wisecracks. Anyway, Jack Paar's show is certainly a different variety hour.

An episode of "The Dick Powell Theatre," starring Gene Barry as a wealthy homicide detective named Amos Burke, has been removed from the schedule of the BC series and another show substituted. The episode, based on a jaunty, "Thin Man" type character which Powell played in a couple of episodes last season, was made as a demonstration film for a whole new series, and now ABC is reported vitally interested in it.

Recommended tonight: David Brinkley's "Journal," BC, 10-10:30 (EST)—the show takes a look at New York's Ellis Island and Los Angeles' Watts Towers.

Salem Rips Niles 75-43, Draws Warren For District

Quakers, Panthers Collide Thursday

By MARK W. MILLER
News Sports Editor

District laurels are Salem's next goal.

The Quakers earned the right to compete in the district event by polishing off Niles 75-43 for the last of four sectional championships before an estimated 3,000 fans (mostly Salem) at Struthers Field House last Saturday night.

Following the tilt, mentors from Warren Harding, Cardinal Mooney, Youngstown South and Salem met for the district drawing.

Mooney's Jerry Kuzma, who has guided the Cardinals to a 12-7 mark, got first choice. He selected the number two spot in top bracket.

WES POLLOCK, who directed the session, held an open drawing and none of the teams was seeded. Harding Coach Dick

SO EFFECTIVE was Salem's defense in the third frame that Niles was limited to a meager two baskets in 10 field goal attempts.

Salem made fewer turnovers than at any other time this season. The Quakers made only seven miscues, while Niles had 15 mistakes caged against them.

It was the second time during the campaign that Salem knocked off Niles. The Quakers trimmed the Red Dragons 84-72 Jan. 18.

Neither team was spectacular in the field goal shooting department. Salem tried 71 shots and swished the nets 24 times for 33.8 per cent. At the foul line the Quakers excelled, tossing in 27 of 39 free throws for 69.2 per cent.

Niles tried 70 shots and canned 17 for 24.2 per cent. From the charity circle, the Red Dragons were able to make only nine of 23 for a low 39 per cent.

Salem-Warren Tickets Go On Sale Today

Season ticket holders will have until Tuesday at 6 p. m. to purchase tickets for the Salem - Warren Harding district tournament game. The ducats went on sale at Heddleston's Pharmacy and Fisher's News Agency today.

The adult tickets will be made available to the general public after 6 Tuesday. Salem Athletic Director Fred Cope said, "We received only a limited amount of tickets."

Students can buy their ducats at the high school gymnasium ticket booth today and Tuesday.

Boyd picked second, and chose the number three position.

John Cabas, Salem mentor, then surprised everybody by selecting Harding for his Thursday opponent. That left South to meet Mooney Wednesday. The tournament will be played at South Field House with the finals set Saturday. All games will start at 8 p.m.

A big jolt was handed the Quakers in the Niles skirmish. With 6:16 left in the second period, Rick Platt sprained his wrist, and he may not be able to play against the Panthers.

In the third frame, Salem put the contest on ice with a tremendous team effort. It took Niles 5:50 to can a bucket, while the Quakers were picking up 17 points.

Defense played an important roll as Salem chalked up its 15th victory in 21 starts. Niles finished with a 12-9 record.

COACH JOE BASSETT'S aggregation threw a scare into Salem during the first half. The Quakers went out front 14-9 in the initial period on the shooting of three-year-veteran Bill Beery who made seven of the markers.

The Quakers rushed to a 20-11 margin early in the second stanza, but Niles peeked away at the Salem lead, and finally tied the score 26-26 with 1:43 left.

Four times the lead exchanged hands, then Dave Capel made 3 straight from the charity circle to give Salem a 30-29 margin at intermission.

John Knight, a Niles substitute, made a foul shot early in the third frame, and that was the best the Red Dragons could do until the clock showed 2:10. Don Andres broke the cold spell with an easy layup.

But Salem was just too hot for the Red Dragons, and when the period came to a close the Red and Black held a commanding 51-34 spread.

BEERY SET THE ALL-TIME individual scoring record of 464 points with an 18-point effort to take scoring honors for the Red and Black. He also collected 15 rebounds. Woody Deitch set the old standard of 461 points during the 1958-59 campaign to spark the Quakers all the way to the state finals at Columbus. He made his total in 27 games.

Bob King, who cleared the boards of 16 rebounds, chipped in with 15. Marlin Waller tallied 13 markers and hauled in 11 rebounds. Dave Capel, who replaced Platt in the second canto, finished with 11.

Coach Cabas emptied his bench in the fourth period, with three of the subs getting into the scoring column.

Tom James paced Niles with 13 points. Dave Nestor, who fouled out of the game in the fourth frame, finished with 12. Don Andres fouled out with 2:10 left in the third frame.

Beery sat out part of the third canto and most of the fourth frame with four fouls. A total of 45 fouls were called during the game.

HARDING COACH Dick Boyd said, "I thought Salem would choose Mooney for its first game and play us in the finals Saturday night."

"I am somewhat surprised. We thought we would play Youngstown South, who we think is the weakest team in the tourney, first."

Coach Cabas said last Wednesday if Salem got into the district tournament, he would choose Harding because the boys wanted it that way.

"We might as well play them now; either we can beat them or we can't," the Salem mentor commented.

Salem dropped a close 64-60 decision to Harding at Warren Jan. 1. The Panthers will have the best record (18-3) going into the event. Youngstown South (13-6) will be defending its district crown, and Mooney (12-7) is the dark horse squad.

Officials chosen for the tourney are Cliff Faust of Garfield Heights, Nick Marcu of Middlefield, Les Ruland of North Madison, and Charles Hoflick of Cleveland.

I'LL TAKE THAT BALL—Substitute Jim Berline (31) of Niles grabbed this rebound, following Marlin Waller's (30) attempted Salem field goal. The Red Dragons' Tom James (25), and Don Andres (33), along with the Quakers' Rich Sweitzer (14) and Bill Beery (32) get set for further action.

EASY DOES IT—Marlin Waller (30) made this layup shot for Salem in the second quarter during the sectional championship clash at Struthers Field House last Saturday night. Tom James (25), "Bo" Rein (45), Don Andres and Dick Leonard (21) of Niles; and Salem's Rich Sweitzer (14) and Bob King (40) watch the action.

Cincy Battles Texas In 1st NCAA Tourney Clash Friday

Cincinnati opens fire this week in its bid to capture college basketball's third consecutive year—with 22 elite teams primed to topple the mighty Bearcats.

The Bearcats and the Longhorns tangle at Lawrence, Kan., in one of the four NCAA regional games are set for tonight.

26th NIT Starts Thursday

Elsewhere in the flurry of post-season action, the 26th National Invitation Tournament begins Thursday night at New York's Madison Square Garden. Wichita's Wheatshockers, who dealt top-ranked Cincinnati its only loss of the season, head the 12-team field.

The NCAA small college tourney also continues, with the national quarter-finals at Evansville, Ind., Wednesday night, and 32 teams begin shooting for the NAIA title tonight in the week-long marathon at Kansas City.

Texas and Oklahoma City posted the first victories in the NCAA tourney Saturday while three other clubs won conference berths in the event and the battle for the final spot ended in a tie, to be resolved in a playoff.

The Longhorns ran off from Texas Western 65-47 and Oklahoma City topped Colorado State University 70-67 in the Midwest first round at Lubbock, Tex.

Meanwhile, Illinois, Colorado and San Francisco won their way into the NCAA—the Illini with a big boost from Indiana.

OSU Loses In Overtime

Illinois scored at home against Iowa 73-69 and Indiana upended Ohio State 87-85 in overtime on the Hoosiers' floor, halting the Buckeyes' drive for a fourth straight Big Ten crown. The results left Illinois and Ohio State deadlocked for first in the conference with 11-3 records and under Big Ten rules the NCAA trip went to the Illini since the Buckeyes went last year.

Colorado pulled a surprise, winning K-State for the Big Eight championship. The Buffaloes got the NCAA spot, despite the tie, since they took both their regular season games against Kansas State.

San Francisco won the showdown for the West Coast Athletic Conference title when a free throw by Dave Lee with 2 seconds to go enabled the Dons to squeeze by Santa Clara 62-61.

The other Pacific Coast race finished in a dead heat between UCLA and Stanford, who wound up with 7-5 marks in the Big Six and will settle the NCAA question in a playoff at Santa Monica Tuesday night. UCLA belted California 72-59 Saturday night and

Mantle Is Hurt, Yanks Lose Exhibition To Orioles 5-4

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mickey Mantle is injured again, but the word is that he won't be out long.

The superstar centerfielder for the world champion New York Yankees sustained a pulled groin muscle while warming up before an exhibition game with Baltimore in Miami Sunday.

He was scratched from the Yankee lineup and is expected to be out two or three days. The injury is not believed to be serious.

"I'm not going to use him, not even as a pinch hitter," Yankee manager Ralph Houk said. "He might hurt himself even worse and be out for four or five days. If I played him, I know he would go all out and extend himself and he might aggravate the injury."

As usual, with Mantle out, the Yanks lost. A two-run error by rookie third baseman Mike Mason let in the tying and winning runs as the Orioles scored a 5-4 triumph, their second straight over the Yankees. Roger Maris tripled and Hector Lopez had a homer for the losers.

While the Yanks were fretting about Mantle's new injury, the Los Angeles Dodgers did some mild rejoicing over the comeback bid of lefty Sandy Koufax.

Joe Nuxhall, Alan Worthington, George McWilliams and Turk Lowe combined to limit the White Sox to six hits in the long shut-out, Tony Taylor's 10th-inning triple started the Phillies to their triumph and Johnny Goryl's two-run double in the 10th was the winner for Minnesota.

Dick Stuart, acquired by Boston in the hopes of providing some right-handed power, had a homer, a triple and a single for the Red Sox while $150,000 bonus baby pitcher Bob Garibaldi got the victory for San Francisco in a couple of the other features.

Palmer's 273 Garners Pensacola Open Title

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Once again, Arnold Palmer has shown why he is one of the most respected competitors in golf.

Trailing by four strokes starting the final round of the Pensacola, Fla. Arnold Palmer has shown why he is one of the most respected competitors in golf.

The victory check of $3,500 left him trailing only Africa's Gary Player by little more than $1,000 for the lead among the year's top money winners.

Player finished with a 69 and 275. He tied for second place with Harold Kneec, who skidded to a 73 after taking the third-round lead with a course record-tying 63 Saturday. Player and Kneec each pocketed $2,050.

The $3,500 added to previous 1962 winnings increased Palmer's earnings this year to $21,425. Player still leads with $22,452.

Smoke Signals From Indians' Wigwam

By CHUCK SUCH
(Special to Salem News)

TUCSON — Golf continues to be a big attraction for Cleveland Indians after daily workouts. It's good conditioner for the legs and the players enjoy ribbing each other about their game.

Gary Bell came up with the best crack yet after playing a round with Gene Green, the huge outfielder.

"After nine holes, his golf ball looked like a biology class had worked out on it," Bell cracked.

SOME OF HE players went hunting in the desert. It's wild pig season here.

Pitcher Bill Dailey, who makes his home in Phoenix, knows this area well. He served as guide for his teammates.

"those wild pigs have long hair and they can make it stand straight out or they pull it in very close," Dailey said. "It's hard to believe but they can hide right out in the open desert by just standing absolutely still. They blend in with the landscape by merely making that long hair stand straight out. It's amazing."

MANAGER BIRDIE TEBBETS reminds one of a school teacher scolding his pupils when he chews out the players.

For instance, the other day he yelled at a player: "Did you get a good look at that play?"

"Oh yes sir," the player replied.

"Well, you should have, you were the best spectator in the park," Tebbets retorted. "You're supposed to help out."

"Nasty, wasn't it," Tebbets grinned and said softly to reporters seated near him.

ON ANOTHER occasion, the catchers were practicing catching high pop flies. As they passed the bench, Tebbets called them over.

"How long were you practicing catching those popups?" Tebbets asked.

"About a half hour, sir," one catcher replied.

"Well all that time there were three loose baseballs out there on the ground while you guys were running around looking up in the air," Tebbets snorted. "And your whole baseball careers were at stake."

"That's all," Tebbets dismissed them. "I don't want my catchers to be stupid."

TEBBETS was asked how he was going to pronounce Vic Davalillo's name.

There's some question about it as there always seems to be with Spanish names.

Davalillo himself says it should be pronounced "Davaliejo."

"I'm just going to call him Vic," Tebbets chuckled.

ONE 'YOUNGSTER' in camp who is getting the microscope treatment is Fred Whitfield, 6-foot first baseman acquired from the St. Louis Cardinals for infielder Jack Kubiszyn and pitcher Ron Taylor.

Whitfield, a native of Vandiver, Ala., is 25 years old and has an impressive record as a long-ball hitter and RBI man. However, his label has been "good bat, no glove."

The Tribe brass is hoping this guy will pop into their heavy-hitting first baseman of the future.

He played in 73 games with the Cards last season and batted .266. He is getting quite a workout this spring while Joe Adcock takes his good old time getting into condition. He's 35 and the bosses say he never gets off to a good start early in the season anyway.

THE CUBAN boys talk freely about the situation in their native land. Some of the stories shake the listeners.

"The Cubans have lost their fight to the Russians," one Cuban said. "The Russians are too much for us. It's up to the U. S. now."

Plans and specifications may be obtained from the Office of Kling, Philpott and Smith, Architects, 661 Philip Avenue, Youngstown, Ohio, upon a deposit of Twenty Five Dollars ($25.00) in currency or certified check. A receipt will be given for each deposit. Each bidder will be allowed one copy of plans and specifications, extra copies may be obtained at a cost of Fifteen Dollars ($15.00) per set.

All plans and specifications must be returned to the Office of the Architects and in good condition, without any marks or alterations thereon, on or before the date of closing of bids. This complied with, the bidder will receive his deposit, otherwise he will forfeit his deposit. Each bidder is required to submit with his bid a certified check, cashier's check or bid bond in the amount of ten percent (10%) of the total bid of the items bid upon. The character and amount of security required to be furnished for and in connection with the performance of the contract is stated in the proposed contract documents.

The right is reserved by the Board of Education to reject and or all bids and to waive informalities. No bid may be withdrawn for at least thirty (30) days after the opening thereof.

A word from THERON at the Country Store

I used to listen to people from Texas brag about their state. I didn't know if they had reasons for it or not. I know now they do. Out there many of the highways are ten lanes wide.

It seems strange that here in Columbiana County we do not have one good highway going across it in any direction. Something has been wrong, what is it? It looks to me like we paid for something we never got.

Counterpart Funds

U. S. Can't or Won't Spend It's Foreign Currency

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., acquired two good-looking, female assistants to the Lido night club in Paris last summer and paid his way with U.S.-owned francs. The night on the town provoked outcries back home.

Powell had a quick defense. He quoted Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon as saying if Powell and other congressmen didn't use these francs, the U.S. government would have to burn them.

"This is money going right down the drain," Powell said.

Dillon said he had no recollection of making the remarks and added that he felt these funds

"require the same prudent management and careful handling as any other moneys of the government."

In fact, other administration officials say that most times that a congressman uses funds like these, he forces the United States to buy more foreign currencies with American dollars.

Powell's night on the town, the outcry, his defense, and the denial by Dillon reflect one of the most complex and massive problems in American international finance.

Throughout the world, the United States owns more than $3.8 billion worth of rupees, pounds, dollars, zlotys, kyats and other foreign money. But the United States can't or won't use most of it now.

In Poland, for example, U.S.-owned Polish zlotys total more than $100 million. But every year the United States dips into its own gold to pay $1.4 million in U.S. Social Security and other benefits to residents of Poland.

In most cases, legal limitations, diplomacy, and economics prevent the United States from using all this foreign money that accumulates as a result of U.S. foreign aid.

Under U.S. laws, in fact, more than half the money, while American owned, must be used for the benefit of other countries. And, according to U. S. officials, the United States would rock and perhaps wreck the economies of other countries if it ever spent the rest of the money in one swoop.

"We would cause inflation," said Bartlett Harvey, chief of the Economic Progress Division of the Agency for International Development. "We would hurt the very countries we are trying to help. We would end up spending more American dollars to help them fight the inflation."

The problem of U.S.-owned foreign currencies is so complex that it seems to attract attention only when congressmen take these funds to finance junkies around the world.

U.S.-owned foreign funds come from three main sources:

1. The sale of surplus wheat and other crops. Under the law, friendly countries may pay for this with their own currency instead of U.S. dollars.

2. Grants of economic aid. Under his program, an American manufacturer ships his commodities to a foreign land. The United States pays him in dollars. The foreign land sets up an account with an equivalent or counterpart amount in foreign currency. Ninety per cent of this account reverts to the foreign land for its use. The remaining 10 per cent becomes U.S.-owned funds.

3. Repayment of loans. The law provides that some foreign nations may repay their loans in foreign currencies.

President Kennedy, in his budget message to Congress, estimated that during the present fiscal year ending July 1 the United States owned $3,875,000,000 worth of this foreign currency.

Of this total the law set aside $2,542,000,000 worth for use by foreign countries that the United States wants to help.

That left $1,332,000,000 for the United States to use, maintaining embassies, paying foreign employees printing books, building military housing, conducting research in the foreign lands.

The bulk of this money is in eight countries: Burma, India, Indonesia, Israel, Pakistan, Poland, Yugoslavia and Egypt. There the supply of the foreign currency overwhelms the needs and desires of the U.S. embassies.

In India, for example, the United States will have a supply of $362 million worth of rupees in 1964. Officials estimate the embassy in New Delhi will use about $24 million worth that year. That will leave a supply of $338 million worth, enough for 14 more years. As foreign aid increases, the supply will grow bigger.

Here is where the paradox about congressmen comes in.

With their U.S. government-financed junkies, they spend $500,000 worth of counterpart funds and other U. S.-owned currencies a year. But they seldom visit the countries that have a huge supply of these currencies. Harvey said that congressmen have used only $22,000 worth of Indian rupees in 5 1/2 years.

But in France the U.S. Embassy needs more foreign currencies than it owns. In 1964, the embassy in Paris will have a supply of $12 million worth of counterpart and other funds, but it will need $168 million worth of francs for all its activities. As a result, whenever a congressman uses these funds in France, the United States will have to buy francs with dollars to make up the loss.

The use of counterpart and other foreign funds by congressmen does not come under the scrutiny of the General Accounting Office which has the power to look into every financial corner of government except in Congress.

In a recent report submitted to Congress by Comptroller General Joseph Campbell, the GAO cited three ways in which it felt the United States could make better use of counterpart funds and other U.S.-owned foreign currencies.

First, the GAO said the United States should use more of the foreign currencies when they are in heavy supply and it cited a case like Poland to show this is not being done. The GAO said the United States could pay Social Security benefits in zlotys rather than dollars to Polish citizens who once worked in the United States.

Second, the United States, according to the GAO, sometimes buys foreign currencies when it owns counterpart funds that have been set aside for future projects.

Finally, the GAO said that the United States loses money by depositing much of its foreign currencies in banks that pay little or no interest.

At the end of 1959, the GAO said, the United States owned $46.6 million worth of lira, most of it deposited in the low-interest paying Bank of Italy. The GAO said the United States could have earned $475,000 a year if the funds had been deposited in a commercial bank.

JFK's Economists Say No Recession Until 1964 or '65

dent Kennedy's economists do not foresee another recession before 1964 or 1965, even if Congress fails to cut taxes this year.

They do believe, however, that the decision on the proposed 1963 tax reduction might make the difference between an upturn and a downturn when the economy finally moves off its present high "plateau."

The President caused a ripple of alarm among businessmen last month when he began selling his $10 billion tax reduction plan as a recession-preventative. Until then, his argument was that it would supply a needed spur to economic growth.

The uneasiness was heightened last week when he February employment report showed joblessness had climbed from an unsatisfactory 6.1 per cent, highest labor force to an even more unsatisfactory 6.1 per cent, highest in 14 months.

Other indexes have charted a so-so winter record, with strong demand for new cars offsetting some distinct weak spots. Industrial output has slogged along almost unchanged since last spring. Exceptionally bitter winter weather apparently explained part of the February rise in outdoor unemployment.

But there's enough possibility of a recession this year, most economists agree, to justify the threat of a downturn as an argument for early tax reduction. Kennedy made the most of it in telling a recent news conference that failure to cut taxes "substantially increases in the chance of a recession."

But he has stated more recently, "I am not predicting a recession for 1963," and reliable sources say this is definitely the view of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

Well sustained consumer demand, plus record corporation profits and sign of some pickup in business spending on plant, and inventories suggest a continued economists report.

On the other hand, they see no sign of a strong upsurge in any segment of the economy.

Social Events In Lisbon Area

By ETTA MAE ALEXANDER

"Advancing with women leaders in inter-cultural relations" was the program theme of the dinner meeting of Alpha Iota Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Sorority, which was held Thursday evening at the Hotel Wick.

Mildred McGregor of East Liverpool, president, conducted the business meeting.

Dorothy J. Nelson, elementary supervisor for Youngstown schools, spoke on "My Two Years in Nigeria" and showed slides. She was a member of an Ohio University group who conducted a teachers training program, sponsored by the United States aid program, in Nigeria.

On April 27, a luncheon will be held at the Steubenville Country Club for Alpha Iota and Steubenville area members of Delta Kappa Gamma.

DELTA OMICRON CHAPTER of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority met Thursday evening at the high school and cast ballots for the delegate to Buckeye Girls State, which they will co-sponsor with Gamma Zeta Chapter of E.S.A. Announcement of the delegate will be made following the meeting Thursday of Gamma Zeta.

"Interesting Women" was the program presented by Mrs. William Robinson and Mrs. Richard Crosser.

Hostesses were Mrs. Jerry Rose and Mrs. Ronald Klein.

The next meeting March 21 will be "guest night" when members and guests will attend a cooking class at the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. in Salem.
